WASHINGTON, June 13.—A new "business relief" tax bill, limited to suggestions made by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, was rushed toward completion today by the House Ways and Means tax subcommittee.

Early passage of the bill was assured in the house as Republicans joined the Democratic majority in drafting a bill which is expected to have unanimous committee support. The program will eliminate the most far-reaching New Deal experiment in taxation—the undistributed profits tax, and veer back toward the tax treatment accorded corporations years ago.

The subcommittee, however, rejected the substitute program offered by the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. which went much further than the treasury suggested.

Some Of Provisions
Outstanding provisions already agreed upon include repeal of the undistributed profits tax, substitution of a flat 18 per cent corporation income tax, permission to corporations to carry over losses for two years, permission to redeclare valuation of capital stock upwards in order to reduce excess profits taxes, and repeal of the present limitation of $2,000 on deduction of capital losses from income of corporations.

Chairman Cooper of the subcommittee predicted that changes already tentatively approved would relieve business from many hardships.

McNutt For Roosevelt If He Seeks Third Term

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Paul V. McNutt, American high commissioner to the Philippines, will abandon his own campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination and support President Roosevelt in 1940, if the latter seeks a third term.

This was disclosed today by Senator Sherman Minton (D) of Indiana, a leader in the McNutt camp. Minton asserted the whole McNutt organization would be thrown behind the president if Mr. Roosevelt seeks renomination next year. Minton said:

"Our whole campaign is based upon the assumption that President Roosevelt is not going to be a candidate. If the president becomes a candidate, we will be for the president. And that includes McNutt."
The McNutt position on the third term issue is just the opposite of that taken by Vice President John Nance Garner. Followers of Garner propose to place his name in nomination at the 1940 Democratic convention, even if Mr. Roosevelt does seek a third term.

Bulletin
(International News Service)
LONDON, June 13.—Grave fears that Japan's threatened blockade of the foreign settlement at Tientsin will lead to serious trouble today prompted Great Britain to propose appointment of a joint commission to investigate the situation.

The foreign affairs committee of the cabinet decided to suggest that a committee composed of one British, one Japanese and one neutral observer meet immediately.
To Decide On Action
The special court would be called upon to decide whether four Chinese accused of killing a Japanese customs officer in Tientsin should be turned over to Japanese authorities, as demanded by Tokyo.

Japan announced its intention of imposing the blockade in reprisal against refusal of British authorities to hand over the prisoners.

The British decision was reached because of the cabinet's conviction that the Tientsin situation is "seriously and steadily deteriorating."

Tientsin, June 13.—British light infantry units began patrolling the international concession boundaries in Tientsin tonight as the time approached for a threatened Japanese blockade on the area.

State Senator Is Convicted Of Diverting W.P.A. Labor

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—State Senator Joseph P. Dando, Schuylkill county Democratic leader, today faced a maximum prison sentence of two years and $10,000 fine following his conviction by a federal jury on charges of diverting WPA labor to private use in Llewellyn, Pa.

The jury which deliberated four hours also convicted five of Dando's co-defendants—all WPA foremen and timekeepers; acquitted a sixth and released two on directed verdicts. Dando and the others were released in bail pending their appeal for a new trial to be heard next Tuesday.

The state senator, who has voted with Republicans on recent occasions, was accused of improving his swimming pool and boxing arena with $1,000 worth of WPA labor. Another similar indictment remains against Dando which may or may not be tried, U. S. Attorney General A. Gleason said.

Legal speculation today centered around possible senate action against Dando's seat if his conviction holds. The state constitution provides the senate "shall be the judge of its own members," it was pointed out.

Those convicted with the senator are: Charles P. Simmett and Forest Pinkerton, Llewellyn; Oswald Bendrick, Minersville; Clyde Schock and Roy Hossler, Pottsville. Acquitted were: John E. Kelly, Pottsville, by the jury, and Francis Valibus, Minersville, and James Butler, Philadelphia, on directed verdicts.

Entering through the royal party traveled through the story-book countryside to Fredericton, the capital of New Brunswick, for a reception. Then on to St. John and Moncton with thousands of school children, their teachers, parents, war veterans and ordinary curious greeting them.

The cheers of the thousands who greeted them in the little towns of Quebec yesterday still rang in the royal ears. Beretted, bearded veterans guarded the route and children sang "Alouette" as shouts of "Vive le roi-vive la reine" rang out.

HARRISBURG, June 13.—Citing three charges, the prosecution today launched its opening address in the trial of former State Highway Secretary Roy E. Brownmiller, accused of misconduct in office.

Assistant Dauphin County District Attorney Earl V. Compton charged that Brownmiller knowingly permitted the padding of payroll, failed to halt macing of state employees, and "unlawfully and maliciously permitted the waste and misuse of public funds."

First On Trial
Brownmiller, who was a member of former Gov. George H. Earle's cabinet, was the first of 12 high ranking Democrats indicted in the Dauphin county grand jury investigation, to go on trial. He is under indictment in Luzerne county on the same charges, together with 45 other persons.

Assistant District Attorney Compton told the jury of seven men and five women that the charges involving Brownmiller were known as common law offenses, not specifically included in the general assembly act.

"The commonwealth will show," charged the prosecutor, "that Brownmiller distributed funds among various districts for highway use. We will show that in June, 1938, some $400,000 was allocated for Luzerne county."

Oh what is so rare as a day in June the poet Lowell inquired, and then went on to invite a lay, in a manner fervent, inspired. But he never answered the question at that, or perhaps you may not care to know the answer to what he asks, why a June day is so rare. But it seems it is, as the poet asks, but the answer I cannot say, I only know that I like June days, its wet sixty four today.

Crosses Lake Michigan In Glider

New Record Set By Newark Man

Flies Across Lake In 52 Minutes In Motorless Plane Yesterday

STARTS FROM 13,000 FEET ALTITUDE

(International News Service)
FRANKFORT, Mich., June 13.—Ted Bellak, 27-year-old flying instructor from Newark, N. J., today held the world's record for motorless flight across water.

At an altitude of 13,000 feet, he cast his sailplane loose from a tow plane at 6:05 p. m. yesterday. Fifty-two minutes later, he had crossed Lake Michigan.

In crossing, however, he had been blown far south of his destination. Frankfort. He nosed his huge, German-built glider northward, against the wind, and reached Frankfort at 7:12 p. m.

Although the direct distance of the crossing was 54 miles, Bellak flew a total of 90 miles.

His average speed was 70 miles an hour. He lost altitude at an average of a foot and a half a second, and had 8,000 feet of altitude to spare when he reached Frankfort.

The longest previous glider flight across water was over the English Channel, a distance of 22 miles.

PAYROLL PADDING AMONG CHARGES AGAINST OFFICIAL

he (Brownmiller) did nothing except to tell the district engineer that to see to it that it did not go too far.

"We will show that he was told that the budget was being greatly overdrawn, that there were 9,000 employees at work. We will show that he was informed that 9,000 men was too large and too wasteful a number."

"The commonwealth will show that budget funds for Luzerne county were overdrawn by $400,000 because of the card system."

Here Compton charged that work rolls were increased through printing a large number of cards bearing the signature of District Engineer John Conlin, and issued to persons not connected with the department but "having political connections."

Cards Provided
"These cards were made available by Conlin to political leaders in each legislative district of Luzerne county," went on Compton. "We will further show that Conlin issued orders no one without a card was to be given employment."

The commonwealth said it would attempt to prove that Brownmiller was advised in a district engineer's report that to continue employment for thousands up to election day last November would require an additional allocation of $1,043,000.

"We will show that on Oct. 26

the defendant in writing directed his subordinate to transfer the sum of $1,043,000 for maintenance in Luzerne county," Compton said. "When the highway payrolls came in Nov. 15, it was shown there were 20,000 employed, that 6,000 were fraudulent and fictitious, including names of school children who continued to attend school, and of coal miners who continued to work in mines."

Claim Criminal Conduct
"We will show that in the fall of 1937, just before election, a similar card system was kept in Luzerne county, with an overdraft then of $270,000 in highway funds. We will show these things were brought to the defendant's attention and will show in what way it was criminal."

"When we have shown this we will then ask you to find the defendant guilty."

In an effort to prove that Brownmiller spent more than $1,000,000 of the state's funds to pad highway payrolls in Luzerne, the commonwealth called as its first witness Arnold E. Keeley, assistant state chief highway engineer.

Margiotti To Be Witness
Appearance of Former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti as a prosecution witness was expected to highlight the trial.

The Brownmiller jury was chosen in less than five hours on Monday out of a panel of approximately 40 takers. Sixty-six petit jurors in all had reported for duty and those not chosen were excused until Monday. It was expected they would be excused again until needed for the next trial. Shelley said all 12 indicted Democrats would be called up for trial, regardless of the outcome in the Brownmiller trial.

Brownmiller, stylish in a tropical weight suit with a blue necktie and blue pocket handkerchief to match, watched the proceedings with interest. He was represented by two former judges, H. O. Bechtel, of Pottsville, and J. Dress Pannell, of Harrisburg.

Shelley was aided by two assistant district attorneys, Samuel B. Handier and Earle Compton.

Following the jury's selection, court was recessed until this morning. Before dismissing the jury for the day in custody of deputy sheriffs, Judge Hughes advised the jurors of their duties, warning them not to converse with other than fellow jurors and then only in the jury room.

The jury will be locked up each night. Jurors will be allowed newspapers from which all mention of the Brownmiller case will be clipped, but will not be permitted to listen to radio programs.

Re-enact Some Taxes

Reenactment of $1,000,000.00 of corporation taxes and $500,000.00 of excise and nuisance taxes is planned as a part of the measure.

The undistributed profits tax, which will be permitted to expire on December 31, was first laid before congress by New Deal tax experts three years ago. Enacted in modified form after a bitter battle, the levy has been under continuous fire from business since that time.

The tax, designed to force corporations to distribute their profits, placed a higher tax on corporations withholding profits from dividends.

The tax was attacked as hurting weak corporations which must conserve earnings to provide capital, as discouraging business and as unnecessary government regulations of business.

MEMORABLE VISIT COMES TO END

NOW that the Nation's royal guests have departed, it must be a source not only of satisfaction but of genuine relief to all good citizens that their notable and welcome visit was not marred by any untoward incident.

From the beginning to the end of their altogether brief stay they received many evidences of that true hospitality which springs from the heart. They were recognized for what they are: a kindly couple, genuinely interested in other people, exemplifying that touch of nature which makes the whole world kin, and not inclined to take themselves or the formalities or trappings ordained for their high position too seriously.

In the dignity which a monarch must preserve on formal occasions there was no trace of arrogance or pomposity—an example which some self-constituted dictators might follow to their own and their people's advantage.

King George's reputation as "a regular fellow"—a CCC boy called him "a good guy"—was not dimmed by his visit to a people who take pride in their democracy. As for his Queen, the overworked word "charming" still seems the only term to describe both the first and the last impression she left upon all beholders. Her simplicity and grace of manner were no more artificial than, to use a remark by a keen feminine observer, her complexion.

Doubtless the King and Queen, accustomed to encounter many curiosities of the human race in their extensive travels, viewed with tolerant amusement the one or two exhibitions of poor taste or bad manners such as the antics of a perfervid patriot who more or less graces the halls of Congress.

But the general disposition of the American people was to accept this visit of the royal pair at its face value as a kindly call of courtesy from the representatives of a great and friendly nation—no more, no less. They were made welcome because they were pleasant, appreciative guests.

What they saw was a small sample of America. But there is no doubt that if they had had time to tour the country from coast to coast, the same brand of whole-hearted hospitality would have greeted them.

SUPREME COURT'S MOMENTOUS TERM

Another term of the Supreme Court of the United States has come to a close and various elements contributed to make it highly momentous. It was marked by the accession to the bench of two more Roosevelt appointees—Felix Frankfurter and William O. Douglas—making four that the President has been enabled to name through three retirements and one death since his futile and ill-advised attempt at "packing."

In the number of leading cases decided and in the importance of principles of law enunciated, the term was outstanding. Where in the previous term the administration won in every major New Deal case, the 1938-39 record was not quite as one-sided. But in upholding the agricultural adjustment act of 1938, the tobacco inspection act, the alcohol administration act, the national labor relations act as related to intrastate activities, the railway labor act as amended in 1934, the agricultural marketing agreement including price-fixing as applied to milk, the TVA and in sustaining validity of various administrative orders, the Court registered the permanency of its "new liberalism."

The most notable trend by the Court under the present personnel was reflected in the disposition to re-examine and discard principles and doctrines that had become fairly imbedded in the law. This trend was first manifest in the 1935-36 term, but the pace was quickened this term and in no comparable period of recent years had repudiation obtained to the same extent.

Disregard of established precedent was conspicuous in finding valid state taxation of salaries received by Federal employees. This, with other recent rulings, all but nullified the doctrine of implied immunity of instrumentalities of one government from taxation by another under our dual system. To do it the Court had expressly to overrule two decisions that had stood for years. Explanation of the recent flood of concurring individual and group opinions may be found in the statement made by Justice Frankfurter in the tax case in question:

"The volume of the Court's business has since long made impossible the early healthy practice whereby the Justices gave expression to individual opinions. But the old tradition still has relevance when an important shift in constitutional doctrine is announced after a reconstruction in the membership of the Court. Such shifts of opinion should not derive from mere private judgment. They must be duly mindful of the necessary demands of continuity in civilized society. A reversal of a long current of decisions can be justified only if rooted in the Constitution itself as an historic document designed for a developing nation."

By that declaration Justice Frankfurter plainly sought to give assurance that in setting up new principles and new legal concepts in the attempt to adapt the law to present political conditions, the Court was fully conscious of its responsibility for preservation of our democratic ideals. He succinctly defined the judicial yardstick of interpretation when he said that "the touchstone of constitutionality is the Constitution itself and not what we have said about it."

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker decries group selfishness in sermon heard by British rulers.

"To love one's neighbor as one's self is an adequate moral principle only when we can give an inclusive answer to the question, 'who is my neighbor?'"

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Dr. William Mather Lewis diagnoses civilization's ills:

"Civilization needs many things today but nothing more than to unscramble, to put the responsibilities and opportunities of life back where they belong, on the individual."

NEW YORK—Rep. Hamilton Fish attacks the pending neutrality bill: "The far-reaching power granted in the proposed bill is equivalent of a surrender by congress of its constitutional right to declare war."

NEW YORK—Rev. Dr. Halford E. Luccock offers an antidote for Fascism:

"The only way we can prevent Fascism from sweeping the country is to develop an inner and positive creation of security and welfare."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A NEW CHINA

Under the bludgeoning of War, China has begun turning her face toward the West, to her remote inland provinces where high valleys and mountain fastnesses promise sanctuary from the ravaging scourge of bomb and shell-fire.

So refugees from the horrors of war today pour by the thousands into these once isolated westernmost lands in China's far interior, carrying on their backs, or in wheelbarrows, stacked high, their precious household goods. It is no uncommon sight, report observers, to find the roads leading into these provinces crowded with men, women and children and their carts plodding onward to Kwangsi, Szechwan and Yunnan—strange names that mean little to us, but to China's war-stricken people, names that hold the promise of a safe refuge and even of a new empire.

For these remote provinces are said to be rich in copper, iron and coal that have yet to be tapped. In some of the valley lands, drought is unknown and crops are harvested four times a year. At any rate, the physical basis for a new empire lies there. These new regions are rapidly being opened by connecting motor roads, and over these the government is transporting machinery in trucks and donkey carts. Factories and schools are rising up where none appeared a year ago, and among the thousands patiently making the long trek west are the craftsmen, farmers, workers, students, eager to plant the seeds out of which may come a young, flourishing empire.

China's people are bred to hardship and privation, and the whiplash of war and famine are to them nothing new. The present war has cost them millions of lives, but many millions still remain. To vast numbers of these, the future is not altogether dark, as they move westward in a great stream toward their new Promised Land that offers the hope of work and the blessing of peace.

The Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

We dwell, fearfully at times, in a world disturbed by dictators and conquerors, but not one of them so utterly ruthless, or so obsessed with slaughter as the Mongol conqueror whose tomb and solid silver coffin are now in possession of the Japanese invaders of China. They are, it is reported, plotting to move the silver coffin and the bones of Genghis Khan from the Gobi Desert to Chinese territory they have occupied, so as to gain the allegiance of the Mongol descendants of the great Khan, a military genius, perhaps unsurpassed in history.

For seven centuries the remains of the Mongol who conquered Asia and a large part of Europe have been preserved in a solid silver casket, which, in turn, is enclosed in a silver inlaid outer coffin, an object of veneration for all living Mongols. Four times a year sacrifices are offered at the shrine, and Mongols on pilgrimage travel there from far and near, as Mohammedans make their pilgrimage to Mecca. They offer sacrifices of mutton, wine and joss papers and kowtow nine times in honor of their departed leader.

In the year 1162, a Mongol baby was born with a blood-clot on its face. Its mother, Yulu, read this a sign that the child would conquer the world. And so it came about. At the age of 13, Genghis Khan, as Mongol emperor, launched his victorious career. In one of his early battles, 700,000 took part, a fiendishly ruthless battle which left 200,000 dead in the field. He took the rich city of Herat, razed it to the ground, and in blood and fire destroyed every living thing in its walls, sparing not even a blade of grass.

For 40 years his demagogic rage carried Genghis Khan through Asia and Europe in a wanton onslaught of killing and destruction. His dominion of death lay from the China Sea to the banks of the Caspian. At the age of 75, still intent on killing, he turned back through the Gobi Desert, planning again to visit ruin on North China. One night, as he sat alone in his tent, his soothsayers came before him, prostrated themselves and told him they had found an evil sign in the heavens. Five planets were in a strange conjunction—a clear portent of his death if he continued to China. He executed the soothsayers, struck his tent and took to the road. He sank to the ground and died from a mysterious illness.

Whatever modern historians may tell us about the economic roots of war, insatiable lust for power has probably harvested more human lives than money greed. It was love fever, as well as power lust, which sent Attila the Hun out on his 20-year blood-curdling eastern and central Europe. Attila, the Scourge of God, had become king of the Huns in 433, ruling a country now comprised mainly by Hungary and Transylvania.

Honorific, the tricky and devious granddaughter of the Emperor Theodosius II, caught in some shady palace intrigue, sent Attila her ring with a plea that he marry her. He was checkmated and Honorific was locked up. In a rage he started on his savage rampage.

Squat, swarthy, swaggering, with bushy gray hair and feverish, deep-sunken eyes, he plundered and slaughtered for two decades from the Caspian Sea to the Rhine. Honorific forgotten, Attila married a glamorous dame named Ildico. After their marriage feast, he staggered from the great banquet hall—and fell dead from gluttony, drink and madness.

All these conquerors uprooted civilization and left hungry and desperate hordes in their wake.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:31. Sun rises tomorrow 4:28.

We have observed through anonymous communications and otherwise that there are a lot of birds who have no use for any kind of a policeman. You know!

A man does not have to be a good leader. He can be a good follower.

A New York paper is trying to find the typical father. He will probably be located somewhere among the bills.

IN CHARACTER

Someone sends in a rather old but good one about the big Scandinavian who was chased by a policeman.

"Hide me, hide me," he yelled as he dashed into a store. "Cops bane after me."

The storekeeper put the Swede in a corner under some old sacks and then the police dashed in.

"Seen anything of a Swede," asked an officer.

"No."

"What's under those sacks in the corner?"

"That's an old bell."

An officer kicked the sack.

"Yingle, yinkle" came from beneath the sacks.

"Your slip is showing" said a young woman to an elderly lady at a fountain lunch counter. The latter gazed at the former coldly and said:

"That's not my slip that's my petticoat. It should show, that's the style."

A beggar held out two hats to a passerby, saying "Will ya gimme a nickel for a cup of coffee?"

"Sure" replied the passerby, "but what's the idea of the two hats?"

"Well" said the beggar, "business was so good that I had to open a branch."

A very tender hearted judge not long ago was about to pass judgment on a defendant who had been found guilty by the jury.

"Have you ever been sentenced to jail before?" asked the judge.

The prisoner broke down and weepingly said he hadn't.

"Don't carry on so, my man," said the judge. "Please don't cry about it for you're going to be sentenced now."

Cloth is now being made from soy beans. Wiscrackers will be saying that you can't eat your waistcoat and have it.

AT A SERVICE STATION

"You look hollow-chested and anemic" said the air pump to the auto tire. "What's the trouble?"

"Too many income taxes" was the weak reply.

Correct this sentence: "I don't care what contract they offer," said old Dad, "I'll not have you wasting your life playing baseball."

Of course, Canadian Indians who greeted King George as the Great White Father meant no slight to Papa Dionne.

A new lending department has been authorized in Washington. Why not also have a new department that will look after the expenses?

How would you like to be one of those hundreds of people who have been on that ship trying to land in some friendly spot in this world and be denied that privilege. Who would ever have thought that Christian nations would do that?

It has been suggested that every person who is opposed to President Roosevelt being given a third term be fined $1.00. Some one wants the national debt paid all at one time.

If nature is so smart, why did she make man as he is and give the elephant's long snout to a creature that never mindless?

"This country will never have another depression" declared a New Dealer. Please, Mister, don't tell us this one is going to last always.

A woman has been elected county commissioner in Erie county twice and has very little opposition for a third term. People there tell us she is the best county commissioner they ever had. Nice compliment after serving three terms in that office.

COSTLY EDUCATION

Prices had gone up and a city man was kicking to a rural friend. "What do you expect?" asked the farmer. "When they pass a law that you have to know the botanical name of everything you grow, the entomological name of the bugs that try to destroy it and the pharmaceutical name of the stuff to spray it with, someone has to pay the bill for all this learning."

Old-timers lacked the blessing of furnace heat, but their doors and furniture drawers didn't swell shut in Summer and shrink loose in Winter.

A beggar held out two hats to a passerby, saying "Will ya gimme a nickel for a cup of coffee?"

"Sure" replied the passerby, "but what's the idea of the two hats?"

"Well" said the beggar, "business was so good that I had to open a branch."

Dear Miss Markel—Who stands in the receiving line at a wedding reception? G. G. G.

Answer—The bride and groom and all of the attendants stand in one receiving line. The parents of the bride and groom stand in another receiving line near the entrance to the room in which the guests will come to greet the newlyweds.

The mother of the bride heads the line, next to her comes the mother of the groom, then the father of the groom. The bride's father need not stand in the line if he prefers to circulate about the room entertaining the guests. The bride's receiving line: The bride stands to the right of the groom, her attendants stand to her right.

Tomorrow—Annoying Mannerisms

Some birds select after midnight to race their cars up and down the streets at great speed. We often wonder if they are sober.

We don't know whether or not worry causes gray hairs, but many a woman will tell you that her gray hairs cause her worry.

It is claimed by an authority that excessive speeding is the cause of most auto accidents. Motor vehicles driven on the wrong side of the roads come second in the lineup of accidents.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

"Marie," said the mistress, "when you wait on table tonight, for my guests, please don't spill anything."

"Don't worry, ma'am" answered the maid. "I never talk much."

Doubtless the humblest are useful, too. The most glorious sunset is a product of dust and dirt.

It's easy to identify a publicity hound. He has a big mouth and a long tale.

HIGHLY PAID

He was the office boy of the greatest lawyer of his day. This eminent barrister was fond of displaying his legal learning and when he didn't have a big-paying client he would give the office boy information on the law.

The boy was chatting with boys from other offices at lunch one day and the talk got around to salaries.

"What pay do you get?" the lawyer's boy was asked.

"I get $50,000 a year," said the boy.

"Quit kidding," he was told.

"That's right," he affirmed. "I get $10 a week cash and the rest in legal advice."

It is reported that a lunch stand proprietor was a bit insulted the other day when a customer explained the reason he wanted to look at the menus for the last week was to get the recipe for the hash.

NOT A CHANCE

"Women ask such crazy questions," said one small boy to another. "Take Saturday morning when I was working in the yard. Mrs. Smith came over and asked me if my mother was home."

"What's so crazy about that?" asked the other boy. "Maybe she wanted to save going up to the door in case your new wasn't home."

"Hm," mused the first boy. "Just as if I'd be working in that yard if my mother wasn't home."

Density of population is a factor in causing wars, according to a military expert. The density of prominent skulls has nothing to do with it, too.

Nature tries to save man's pride. By the time he has long hair in his ears, his eyes are no longer good enough to see it.

Before the Labor Department of Mexico appeared representatives of a "National Syndicate of Beggars." They claimed they had organized 1,500,000 beggars throughout Mexico, and said that agents were touring the republic to enroll new members. They wanted recognition as a labor union.

Ira D. Sankey was a great man and put New Castle on the map in a big way. The 100th anniversary of his birth is to be celebrated in this city. He gave New Castle the first Y. M. C. A. building which is now occupied by the Y. W. C. A. and it is an enduring monument. It should be a big day in New Castle.

After travelling over the roads in this country we see many evidences of where in the old days road builders tried to make the roads as crooked as possible and the modern road builders, are making them as straight as possible. That's real progress.

Washington Jittery Over Royalty Visit Causes Extra Precautions Residents Get Taste Of Old-World

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 12.—On account of King George's and Queen Elizabeth's visit, the Washington atmosphere for a few days was so very different from the kind of thing we hear described as characteristic of Moscow, with its OGPU, or of Berlin, with its Gestapo. In the memory of the oldest inhabitants the capital's various secret services and local uniformed policemen never developed so violent a state of jitters as just preceding and during our royal guests' stay here.

Suppose you were a loyal American citizen, occupying a store with a show window fronting on their majesties' advertised line of march from the Union railway station to the White House. And suppose you saw fit to rent out some seats in that window to folk who wanted to watch the procession in reasonable comfort. How would you like it to have a sleuth drop in and ask you to assure him that you weren't planning to chuck a bomb among the paraders? And how would you like to have the "dick" also require you to furnish credentials guaranteeing the reliability of all your window customers?

Well, that's what happened. Doesn't it sound rather OGPU-ish or Gestapo-ish?

Or suppose that, standing on the curb line, in a position to get a good squint at the performance, you chanced to put your hand into your hip pocket, to get out your handkerchief. How would you enjoy having a plainclothes man tap you on the shoulder?—with a demand that you explain yourself and be quick about it? Or else?

Risks Can't Be Taken

Of course the president is super-guarded always.

That's understandable and necessary. He's conspicuous and cranks are on the lookout for him. Nevertheless, I've occasionally thought that his protection was overostentatious. I've seen him come into the National Press club (surely a fairly safe place) surrounded by secret services, with hands on their pistols.

It's seemed to me, on these occasions, that matters were being overdone a bit—that he'd better stay home if he's so uneasy.

Don't think he is uneasy, either. I think the uneasy birds are the secret services—afraid that something will go wrong and that they'll be blamed for it.

However, the protection that the president gets is nothing comparable to what their visiting Britannic majesties got in Washington.

Streets aren't closed for him to pass through. Traffic isn't interrupted. A city's business isn't suspended. You're not in danger of having your pockets frisked lest you have firearms concealed on your person.

Why The Jitters?

Two things scared the tar out of secret service-dom.

A cuckoo chap whanged off a sawed-off shotgun in the vicinity of the Duchess of Kent (sister-in-law of King George) in London.

Sean Russell, supposed of the anti-English Irish army, was pinched on the Yankee-Canadian border—allegedly "making" anti-British "medicine" on this side of the line while the king and queen were here.

An "incident" was what our government and secret services were afraid of from the first.

Such a thing was what our secret services worried about over-nights.

It would have been perfectly terrible—and our secret service, had it happened, would have been responsible for it.

The Gestapo and the OGPU haven't stayed awake any more nights than our secret service has thought of the possibility that anybody might toss a can under their Britannic majesties while here.

Oh, it would have been terrible! And it would have been our fault—or neglect!

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 13.—Pennsylvania's record biennial budget for 1939-41 of $357,000,000 pales in significance beside that of New York City, where the budget for the next year alone totals $587,000,000 on the basis of a two-year period similar to that in Pennsylvania. New York's budget would total $1,174,000,000, or $547,000,000 more than the sum set aside to run the commonwealth.

Press arrangements for the trial of Roy E. Brown, secretary of highways in the administration of former Gov. George H. Earle, are the most elaborate ever entered into at Dauphin County's old Civil War-constructed red-brick courthouse. Special telegraph wires have been installed, with the court's permission, for press associations and newspaper which will cover the trial which is an outgrowth of charges made during the last election campaign against the former Democratic state administration.

Democrats have nominated Mrs. John Frederick Lewis, Jr., a member of the Philadelphia board of education, as their candidate for state senator to fill the vacant seat in the second (Philadelphia) district. The seat was declared vacant as the result of an election contest between Herbert S. Levin, Democrat, and former Sen. Samuel W. Salts, Republican. The election of a woman would give the state its second woman senator in history, the first having been Mrs. Flora M. Vare, R. Philadelphia, who served 1925-27. Mrs. Vare was a sister of former State Senator Edwin H. Vare, brother of William S. Vare, who was denied a seat in the United States senate.

Ten days after the legislature adjourned the printers were still trying to catch up with its work. The greatest demand was for the official house and senate histories with their compilation of bills introduced and enacted by the 1939 general assembly.

Physical Handicap No Bar To Education

Crippled Youth Graduates From High School Without Ever Attending

(International News Service)

BROOKVILLE, Pa., June 13.—Crippled James M. Doyle, Jr., hasn't let his handicap hinder his progress. Recently he was graduated with honors from the Seigel high school, near Brookville, although he never spent a day in school.

Since birth the ambitious youth has been unable to use his legs. But that hasn't prevented him from studying, building model airplanes and even a small car, powered with a washing machine motor, in his home.

The tiny vehicle chugs around his father's 110-acre farm on 10-inch pneumatic tires, and when it is impossible to use the car, he simply uses his hands. He was taught at home by his mother, Mrs. Leo S. Boyle, a former school teacher. When he "graduated" from the grade school four years ago he enrolled by proxy in the Seigel high school. A neighborhood girl, Phyllis Miller, brought his lessons from school and then took them back and occasionally teacher visited the boy to give him examinations or to help him with exceptionally difficult problems. This fall the boy hopes to be able to enter a college. The goal of it all? He wants to be an advertising expert.

American Highways Are Like Park Roads

Foreign Delegates To Highway Club Conference Praise American Roads

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—American highways are clean and "look like park roads" according to the 50 delegates of the International Association of recognized automobile clubs who arrived here recently on an extended tour of Eastern United States and Canada.

Hoping to encourage more motorists to "see America" in autos, the American Automobile Association arranged a tour for the international delegates who attended the association's meeting in Washington, D. C. recently.

Victor De Rohan, president of the I. A. R. A. C. of France, one of the touring members, said: "The American highways are very well arranged, very clean and look more like park roads. The only thing we find wrong here is they are too narrow and your speed limit is restricted to only 50 miles an hour."

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

County Takes Over Entire Township

Occupants Of Ghost Mining Town Will Live In Homes Rent Free

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—Maple Ridge, a mining community with about 200 residents, formerly owned by the Shammar Mining Corporation, has been taken over lock, stock and barrel by Somerset county authorities.

Located about 20 miles northeast of Somerset, the residents have been permitted to live in the homes rent free for the past two years. The company shut down in February, 1938, and the corporation went into bankruptcy.

Although Somerset borough had a $24,000 tax claim against the corporation, it declined to buy the mine or any of the corporation's properties.

The county offered the only bid—$8750—a public sale for the property appraised at about $50,000, and thus acquired the entire township.

The deal was confirmed by federal Judge Nelson McVicar on federal court Pittsburgh. The former employees, many of whom are on the WPA will be allowed to continue to live in the homes rent free, it was announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards, of Elizabeth street, have returned home following a week-end visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clark, of Cleveland, O.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Scott, of Kane, Pa., have returned home after having been called here by the death of the former's brother, Harry S. Scott, Highland Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thompson, of Ashtabula, O., and daughters, Shirley Joan and Patty Jean, spent the week-end at the Thompson home on Lafayette street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Boles, of Winslow avenue, and their guests, Alex Boles, of Addison, O., and Walter Boles, of Wilderness, Va., spent the week end in Brockport, Pa.

moted, the dictator issue would inevitably be paramount to a third-term campaign. It is unnecessary to point out, say these Democratic leaders, that the idea of a dictator, never popular in America, has not been made more so by European developments of the last year. They think it a good thing the third-term boom has been launched now—a year before the convention. That gives plenty of time for the full implications to sink into the public mind.

None ever used his authority for humane reconstruction. Will Japan be an exception to this historic rule as China's millions are driven into one vast despairing flux of misery and pain? And there's this to be said, from the law and the testimony, that though the arm of a conqueror may conquer 20 worlds, there's a lean fellow who beats all conquerors.

It may be old-fashioned, but we still like to think that God calls preachers instead of dictators.

His New State Post

Sworn In Monday As State Secretary Of Revenue At Harrisburg

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, June 13.—Sheriff William J. Hamilton of Philadelphia was sworn into office on Monday as state secretary of revenue to succeed a fellow townsman, J. Griffith Boardman.

Deputy Sheriff David P. Watson, who is also a veteran Republican leader of the Germantown district, was appointed by Gov. Arthur H. James to the Shrieverly post. Hamilton, whose confirmation was long blocked by senate Democrats in the 1939 legislative session, received the oath from Secretary of the Commonwealth Miss S. M. R. O'Hara. He will receive $12,000 yearly in his new post, compared with the $15,000 he received as sheriff.

Among the 100 spectators who thronged the governor's reception chamber for the ceremony were Hamilton's wife and son, and various cabinet officers and state department heads.

Hamilton for years was considered the leader of Philadelphia's Independent Republican element.

RIDICULE OF STUTTERER
SERVES TO AGGRAVATE
CONDITION

Few afflictions a child suffers will embarrass him more or perhaps warp his life more than a serious defect in speech. Speech is our most important means of communication and when this is impaired, the individual is handicapped just that much in his struggle in the world.

There are two terms applied to speech defects—stammering and stuttering. But I'll wager that very few people, even some of the victims themselves, know that the two terms do not apply to the same condition. I didn't myself for a long time in spite of the fact that I was a sufferer.

Stammering is a term applied to an impairment of speech due to a definite anatomical or organic abnormality such as a cleft palate, harelip or any mouth, chest or throat condition which interferes physically with talking.

Stuttering is that hesitant manner of speaking which is the more common of the two types. It is characterized by either clonic or tonic spasms. By that I mean alternative convulsive and relaxing, or by rigid unrelaxing spasms. In a true sense, it isn't a disorder of speech at all. Rather, it is a psychological manifestation of a fear of talking—an obsession with attending inhibitions. There is no true impairment of speech mechanism.

You have all seen adult stutterers, and you have seen how their affliction affects their whole lives. Most of the professions are closed to them, as are many other ways of earning a livelihood.

Stuttering first makes its appearance in a young child, very often after a scare of some kind—just as I told you yesterday in my own case. The trouble is in his inheritance of a nervous system, that is weak at some point. The shock swings this nervous constitution out of balance, and this is reflected in the delicate mechanism of speech. Now these children are unusually shy and sensitive. They are afraid of being ridiculed because they have trouble with words, and so they begin to make conscious efforts to prevent themselves from stuttering. His terrible experiences with words give rise to obsessions in the subconscious mind, and these obsessions inhibit normal speech reflexes, causing greater incoordination of the muscles and greater tendency to those spasms we see so often in stutterers.

Why do people laugh at stutterers? People often ask me that. Mothers, who write me in desperation about their boy's struggles to speak, want to know about this. Personally, I think it is because there is no apparent reason a person should stutter. We expect to see a person with an injured leg limp. But to see a person, apparently well in every way, unable to utter simple everyday words seem to be a matter for merriment. It is very unfortunate, too, for it only helps increase the psychological tangle that is at the bottom of the trouble.

Volant Bank Robber Again Sentenced To Life In Prison

Re-Sentenced In Pittsburgh Court

Life Term Plus 55 Years Is Penalty Meted Out To Harold Brest

RECENTLY RETURNED FROM ALCATRAZ

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, June 13.—Harold Martin Brest, convicted Pennsylvania kidnaper and bank robber, on Monday afternoon was re-sentenced to a life term in prison, plus 55 years, for abducting a Sharon, Pa., salesman, sticking-up the Volant, Pa., bank twice and stealing a car.

Brest was given the unusually-severe term by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, who said he was a "hopeless case."

Brest originally pleaded guilty to the same indictments but obtained his release from Alcatraz on the allegation that he had not been offered counsel at the time he admitted the crimes early in 1937. He stood trial here and was convicted on all counts.

Specifically, Brest was given a life term under the Lindbergh Kidnap Law for abducting D. Lester Santee, of Sharon, and driving him across a state line; 25 years for each of the Volant bank robberies, and five additional years for stealing Santee's machine.

Attorney Zeno Fritz, appointed by court to defend Brest, said the former Sharonite had the ability to rehabilitate himself "but whether he will or not only God himself can say."

New Trial Refused

A request for a new trial was refused before sentence was imposed.

United States Attorney Charles F. Uhl declared during argument as to what sentence should be imposed that Brest's companion-in-crime, Harry James Logan, would not be returned to Pittsburgh from Alcatraz to stand trial and re-sentencing because of the convictions secured against Brest.

In his plea for a reduction of the original sentence imposed by Judge Schoonmaker two years ago, Attorney Fritz pointed out that Brest had two previous convictions—one for an auto theft and one for attempted extortion—against him. Brest was out on parole when he and Logan committed the two bank robberies and the kidnapping and automobile theft.

"Lone Wolf"

Prosecutor Uhl added that there were six other indictments against Brest and Logan in other states for similar charges. Brest was described as a "lone wolf" by his attorney, who endeavored to point out that at no time had the 29-year-old youth attempted to "join" any large gang of thugs.

Judge Schoonmaker overruled Attorney Fritz's plea for a new trial on grounds that Brest had been placed in "double jeopardy." Fritz also protested the sentence under the Lindbergh Law on grounds that at no time had Santee been "held for ransom or reward." These exceptions were also overruled.

Brest himself was impeccably dressed, hair smoothed down and the only signs of emotion were a sudden blanching of the face as the severe sentence was imposed and then a wry smile as Attorney Fritz said he did not think another plea for a new trial would be made.

Due to the necessity of notifying some 1,400 voters of the necessity of their clearing the records in the registration bureau and also the press of work in registration and street lists which is just ahead, the county commissioners have made four temporary appointments.

James Eberhart and Robert Turner have been assigned to deliver the notice cards and Betty Mottlinger and Betty Covelli have been added to the registration personnel for a short time.

After checking the records thoroughly, 1,400 voters were found who have changed their residence or who have not voted in the past two years and have failed to make the adjustments necessary on their records. They have ten days to make the adjustment after which they will be removed from the voting list if they fail to appear.

Blondie Of The Films Will Don Black Wig

By MILTON HARKER
 International News Service Staff
 Correspondent
 HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—Penny Singleton, who bleached her dark hair when she became "Blondie" in Columbia's movie series of the famous comic strip family, will have to wear a black wig when she goes over to Republic on July 1 to star in "Hit Parade" with Phil Regan. Her contract with Columbia permits Penny to make three outside pictures a year, but there is an iron-clad stipulation she can't remotely look like Blondie in any of them. Thus the wig. She might, of course, restore her hair to her natural color but she still has 17 in the Blondie series to make. She is now on the third, "Blondie Takes A Vacation."

 It's a funny thing, but after appearing in a dozen pictures since she came to Hollywood, Penny gets her heart's desire in "Hit Parade." It's a musical comedy and Penny started her career as a singer in musical comedy.
 That doesn't mean, of course, that Penny isn't having the time of her life playing in the Blondie series.
 "I love it," she said today, "I never have had more fun in my life. Sometimes I think I'm getting to be more like Blondie at home than Penny Singleton."

How To Relieve Itching of Piles and Ease Rectal Irritation

If you are annoyed with the itching of piles or rectal irritation, you will be well pleased with the quick and pleasing comfort the use of Ice Mint will give you. This cooling and soothing preparation quickly relieves the itching, eases pain and irritation and aids in healing the raw, sore spots. It seems the height of folly for anyone to suffer this itching annoyance when a simple remedy, so easy to use, may be had at such a small cost. Ice Mint is highly recommended and is clean and pleasant to use. Try it. Any drug store can supply you.

The thing that amuses Penny the most is that most of the younger patients of her dentist husband, Dr. Scroggs Singleton, who is 6 feet 4 and weighs 210 pounds, are beginning to call him "Dagwood," the name of Blondie's screen husband.
 Director Rouben Mamoulian's technicians have done a remarkable job of recreating a perspective of the Palisades, with the George Washington bridge and the New York skyline in the background for a love scene in "Golden Boy" between Barbara Stanwyck and William Holden. (No, Bob Taylor won't get jealous.)
 Anyone who has been in New York—and your reporter spent many happy years there—knows the scene is perfect. You get a little feeling of homesickness when you see the Empire State building and the towering Chrysler spire far off in the background. It's all been done by enlarging photographs hundreds of times their natural size.

 By a complicated operation of rows of tiny electric lights there is all the effect of streams of automobiles crossing the bridge.
 All this has been built so Miss Stanwyck and Holden will have something to look at besides themselves as they exchange tender words.

Dr. R. F. Galbreath Speaks To Rotary Members Monday

Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, president of Westminster college and member of the New Wilmington Rotary club, yesterday recounted to New Castle Rotarians some of the more vivid experiences of his three-year service as a home missionary of the United Presbyterian church in the San Luis valley of southern Colorado.

During his stay there he maintained headquarters at Romeo, Colo., tiny town on the main line of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad.

YOU DON'T PRONOUNCE 'EM—JUST KILL 'EM

(International News Service)
 STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 13.—The most effective way to kill thyrlopteryxphemeriformis is to use a solution made by mixing three pounds of arsenate of lead with 100 gallons of water, State College entomologists say.
 Thyrlopteryxphemeriformis is the scientific name for bag or basket worms which infest evergreens and trees.

Girl Scout Camp
Opens Next WeekExpect Many Girls From City
To Take Part In Project
At Cascade Park

With the closing of the city schools, Girl Scouts have been making plans to get outdoors during the summer months, and registrations have been steadily increasing for the day camp at Cascade Park.

It was learned at the local scout office that plans are well along for a happy two weeks, filled with varied activities for the girls. The camp, according to Miss Helen MacLean, director, will open next Monday.

Among the special opportunities will be a bicycle unit under the leadership of Miss Donna Jean Beall, recent Westminister graduate. Miss Beall plans to take the girls on a number of trips to different parts of the city.

Other members of the staff who are returning to camp this summer will include: Mrs. George Ward, who returned Sunday from taking a special scout course in Ohio; Mrs. Charles L. Goodman, Jr.; Mrs. Travis French; Miss Rosena McGurk and the Misses Jerry Flick and Eileen Waite.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL.

As has been said many times before... folks should get around the county and meet the many fine people we have here in this section. There is nothing greater for the blues than to get out among a group of men... and women among women and talk. Talk about the problems that are characteristic of each section of the country... There are many an interesting place to go... a country church dinner... almost always the food is superb. Maybe the fellow across the table is in the chicken business... his stories can be mighty interesting to a city dweller... and your stories of how you waste your time will be equally as interesting to him. It's an education to travel and if you can't get any farther away than the boundaries of the county... by all means go that far.

May we just pause a moment and give a toast to our friends... papa and mama George Winter... it's a baby girl.

We hear that the boy scouts played a very important part in the river rescue Sunday... while the two local police went to call for help... the boy scouts were on hand to watch over things. We congratulate the boy scouts who were on hand to help. They always remember their motto.

A suggestion has been made and maybe it would be a good one to pass along to the traffic office of either the city or state. A light would be a great help at the east end of the North Street bridge. Intersection of North and Croton... With so much traffic on both of these streets a light would sure help. We understand that new type lights are required but we thought that maybe a special dispensation could be arranged for these summer months. And that the light in front of Highland school could be used.

Here is a little fact that I bet you didn't know... even though you do study... Noah's Ark was a nice little craft... It was 447 feet long, 91 feet broad and 54 feet high, with a capacity of 72,625 tons. And guess what it was made of... Gopher Wood... We hope the above figures are right, if not, correct us.

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 13.—The stock market continued downward today, with the majority of pivotal issues extending fractionally the modest declines of yesterday.

Prices were irregular at the start but soon a handful of stocks were behind minus signs.

At the forenoon lows, Allied Chemical, Chrysler, Goodyear and U. S. Smelting each were down a point or so. General Motors slipped 1/4 at one time.

Lesser declines were shown by Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Youngstown, American Telephone, Anaconda, American Smelting, Kennecott, Consolidated Edison, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, U. S. Rubber and American Can.

Some of the preferred shares continued to display independent strength. Commonwealth & Southern, American Brake Shoe and Public Service of N. J. 7 per cent preferred were up two to three points.

Bertha Burrows Is Honored By Scouts

ELLWOOD CITY, June 13.—Members of the Nightingale Girl Scout troop agreeably surprised one of their leaders, Miss Bertha Burrows, last evening when they held a picnic and shower in her honor at the scout cabin, in Wurttemberg. Miss Burrows will become the bride of Clyde Gibson, Jr., on Saturday afternoon.

Bridal favors featured the novel table decorations and the honor guest's place was marked by a miniature wedding cake. After the tempting dinner, the scouts performed a mock wedding.

Lovely gifts from each patrol were hidden about the camp grounds and Miss Burrows found them by means of "treasure hunt" notes, which provided delightful diversion.

Sharing the event were the troop captain, Mrs. Beryl Gross and the other two leaders, Miss Alda Newton and Miss Doris Cooper. In the afternoon the scouts enjoyed a variety of diversions.

Trans-Atlantic Passenger Air Service Ready

Will Probably Start Flights
To Europe On June 28,
Also Have Air Mail
Flights

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 13.—Modern aviation's greatest dream—trans-Atlantic passenger plane service—is about to be fulfilled. Regularly scheduled weekly flights to Marseilles, France, and return were scheduled today by Pan American Airways to begin June 28.
Weekly air mail flights to Southampton, England, will be inaugurated June 24. Juan T. Trippe, president of Pan American Airways, announced, and after five test flights passengers will be carried.
Two 41-ton, four-motored flying boats, the Yankee Clipper and the Atlantic Clipper, each capable of carrying 74 passengers, will be used. Upon delivery of two more of these ships, the schedules will be doubled.
The fare between New York and Marseilles, via the Azores and an overnight stop at Lisbon, will be $375 one way or $675 for the round trip. The aerial voyage will require an elapsed time of 42 hours to France as compared with 5½ days by steamer.
Eventually the time for the flight may be lowered. At present the boats must fly an additional 1,203 miles around Spain because of inability to obtain a permit to fly directly over Franco Spain. Overnight customs clearance must also be arranged in France.
The mail flight to England will be by way of Newfoundland and Ireland. Eventually there will be a plane to France every Wednesday and one to England every Saturday.
Enemies of democracy needn't worry. Once the voters learn their power to make traitorous politicians give them public money, the end isn't far off.

Red Cross Juniors Aid Fund For Work Among Children Only

Contribution Is Sent From
Lawrence County Children
To Help In Work

W. S. Gard, national director, American Junior Red Cross, Washington, D. C., has just sent a letter to the Lawrence County Chapter acknowledging the receipt of a contribution of the juniors of the New Wilmington branch for the national children's fund. This fund is the accumulated contributions of all the United States and insular possessions. It is a fund that is used for children. At the time of the Chilean disaster several thousands of dollars were sent for children's relief only. Sums of money have been sent to China, Japan, and it was through the national children's fund that Albania, several years ago, acquired their first vocational school. It is of great interest to the local chapter to know that some of the children of Lawrence county have joined in this splendid work.
In the same letter Mr. Gard calls to the juniors attention the fact that when the king and queen of England visited Winnipeg, a group of Junior Red Cross members of Fargo, N. D., were recognized as personal delegates and received a personal welcome from their majesties.
Mr. Gard, who has served the national organization for twenty years and has built the junior organization to its present high rating, retires July 1 and the juniors of Lawrence county have extended to him their appreciation for the service he has rendered this community.
